

Reflection #1— Introducing Myself/ What Brings Me to This Work?

What brings you to this work? What passion/what part of your own experience lies behind it? Start writing here.

How do you see your relationship to the people who will be participating in your writing circle? What is your level of comfort? What are your questions and fears? Start writing here.

What part of your story would you plan to share? And how might you share it? (A lot will come to you spontaneously when you meet your first group, but it is important to think this through carefully in advance, so that you will be prepared) Start writing here.

We invite you to visit our "Stories to Experience and Share" library, to pick out a starter kit of stories that speak to you, as you think more deeply about why you are doing this work. List your picks for future reference.
